"The train had just passed the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street station," said Mr. Appel, "and Mr. Tyler, saughingly, said in reference to a case we were discussing that he supposed he was old enough to be immune from Jury service.

"How old are you?" I asked.

"I am seventy-five," he replied.

The words had hardly left his lips when he gasped. I turned and oaught him as he swayed forward.

Dr. Leo Schultz was on the train and hastened to Mr. Tyler side. He was too late to be of any aid, however, and said that Mr. Tyler must have died instantly of apoplexy, to which he was subject.

Mr. Tyler lived on Primrose street, Mount Vernon, and was manager of the Lockport Cotton Batting Company at No. 353 Broadway. Until four months ago he was in the cotton brokerage business, with offices at No. 47 Leonard street. He was a widower and had one daughter, living in Mount Vernon.

The COWARD SHOE for chilmortgage dated Jan. 20, 1898, to-day asked Judge Lacombe to appoint George W. Linch, general manager of the "Belt Line" as a separate and Independent receiver for the road now in the hands of Messrs. Joline and Robinson, as receivers of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company.

It was intimated to Judge Lacombe that the present receivers are not disposed to continue the operation of the Second avenue line, and are mingling its rents, issues and profits into a larger fund, which is being used for the botterment and operation of other lines composing the surface railroad system.

The Guaranty Trust Company asserted that the appointment of a separate mortgage dated Jan. 20, 1898, to-day dren is a sensible and satisfactory

Display of Dress Trimmings To Garnitures of This Sort This Season's Costumes Will Owe Their Success

HE gown of the season—the gown of long, plain lines—is going to depend for success largely on the beauty of its garnitures, and the trimming novelties that are now put forth are exquisite in texture, in coloring and in design. Net and tinsel are the predominating features—but the differences in arrangement, the delicate combinations of color and the variations of design are almost unlimited. Here are some of these most desirable

Undisputed Evidence of Macy Underselling

Strangers to Macy's strictly cash system often inquire how the Macy store gained a more than national reputation for selling goods cheaper than any other store.

Our fight with the Book Trust answers the query. Selling for cash only, on a slender margin of profit, we are in a position to undersell other stores. To sell as cheaply as we choose we claim is

The Book Trust thought otherwise, denied that we had such a right, and it required a 7-year battle in the courts to overcome the Book Trust contention. So to-day, as always, you can buy the Book Trust product—late copyrighted fiction—here for 98c. a copy against the $1.08 or more asked in all other stores.

The fruits of victory of that 7-year legal battle for a principle, though they might be universal, may be shared only at Macy's. If you would be convinced, try to match any book on this list in any other store at the Macy price-98c.

Books merely serbe as a peg on which to hang the general story. Though the sabing on books is only a matter of 10%, on other lines it is VERY MUCH GREATER. On high-class imported merchandise, for example, our prices are often but ONE-HALF what others ask.

The big volume of business the Macy Glove Store transacts is earned—just as much by excellence of the Gloves as by Macy underpricing. R. H. Macy & Co.'s Attractions Are Their Low Prices.

The Depositors' Account System Is A Real Innovation In Retail Merchandising

Retail store systems, with the exception of Macy's, are pretty nearly alike the country over. They are all patterned so faithfully after the one model that one wonders why any store having such a system should claim to have any advantages over the others in the matter of gathering and distributing goods.

The Macy system is the different system. It is strictly cash—and that means the collection and distribution of goods along the line of least resistance - buying and selling most economically.

The only real innovation in retail merchandising in recent years is Macy's

Depositors' Account Plan:

It Helps You to Save Money and Lay the Foundation of Absolute Independence

Such a plan gives you every convenience of any "charge" account in a credit store, every economy of Macy's strictly cash system and, in addition, the money you have on deposit earns interest at the rate of 4%, compounded every three months. Deposit any sum you care to, make your purchases in the usual way and have them "charged" in the unusual way—to the money you have on deposit. Statements of such accounts are mailed monthly. While such accounts cannot be checked against, as we do no banking business, any part or all of them may be withdrawn at

Only deposits intended for purchasing purposes are invited. We invite yours, for the fall and winter shopping campaign.
